ABOUT DOVE

Dove has been practicing and teaching yoga for over 26 years, and believes that using as many modalities as we can helps kids and adults to learn. Dove began teaching yoga in South Florida before moving up to Philly. He began leading yoga with a Jewish bend to it – blending parsha and yoga together – at Elat Chayyim, a retreat center in New York.

Dove has taught at Germantown Jewish Centre in Mt. Airy for 22 years. In his 2nd grade classes he uses yoga poses both as a learning tool for the Alef Bet and in connection to various stories. His philosophy is that yoga – and all types of embodied practice – engages not only the mind, but allows the whole body to remember what it is learning.

ABOUT RS @ GJC

Sitting at the intersection of tradition, innovation, and community, the Religious School at GJC is committed to educating a new generation of kids for our evolving Jewish world. Our program urges students to get curious about their Judaism and integrates cutting edge teaching methods like Hebrew Through Movement. As they learn and explore, students build confidence in their knowledge and connection to our tradition, competency in prayer and ritual skills, and a strong sense of Jewish identity and connection.

We proudly embrace the racial, ethnic, and gender diversity of our students & their families. We welcome multiracial, interfaith, and LGBT families, and we are committed to the inclusion of students with special needs. The diversity of our families enriches our community and our children's learning. Our religious school is geared towards students (K-10th grade) from all of GJC's many concentric circles of community.
